SEWER DISTRICT CUTS LAW FEES TO SAVE $5,000

The Union Sanitary District has cut the fees of its attorney to save taxpayers $5000 this year.

And the district has named an assistant to Engineer Harry Goodridge.

These developments were announced this week by George Coit, chairman of the district's board of directors.

Coit said Attorney Leon Clark, formerly paid three per cent of bond issues under his contract, has accepted a new contract calling for only one per cent for his legal work. On the recent $250,000 bond issue, therefore, Clark will receive only $2500 instead of $7500.

The cut followed a request by a committee from the Centerville Chamber of Commerce, which pointed out Clark's fee was higher than paid elsewhere for the same work.

In addition, Coit announced appointment of Charles Pestano, San Lorenzo civil engineer, as assistant to Goodridge. The new aide will cost the district nothing, since he will be paid from Goodridge's fees, Coit explained.

Pestano is a former county engineer. He will be available for consultation when Goodridge is busy elsewhere.

Essanay in Niles: III

In the last two weeks' installments of this exclusive series, The Township Register told how the Essanay Film Studios came to Niles in 1912, and what impact the event had on the town. This week the story of movie-making in Washington Township continues:

By STUART NIXON

Early in 1913, Broncho Billy Anderson's dream of a movie studio in Niles came true. An imposing corrugated-iron flat-top was finished on a half-block at First and G Streets. The Western Experiment of the Essanay Film Manufacturing Company of Chicago moved into its new laboratory.

During intervals when Anderson forswore the bright lights of San Franciso, he also supervised the building of eight brown shingled cottages behind the studio. These Second Street bowers were designated quarters for Essanay's more distinguished actors, acresses, and directors. Some of these—the cottages—are still there.

Indoors, the productions lengthened from 2-day, 1000-foot jobs, to 2000-footers that often took a week to make. Anderson began to take pains in editing too, using 4000 feet of film to get the finished 2000.

Before that, Essanay operated out of an old barn on Second Street. The simple scenarios required few "indoor" shots, and these were made on a platform behind the barn. Most of the hard-riding sequences that drew 1912's customers into 1912's nickleodeons were made in the wilds of Niles Canyon.

Anderson, the Hopalong-Gary Cooper of his day, made liberal use of doubles and faked shots to infuse thrills into his Broncho Billy epics. These films followed a simple, ironclad pattern in which the hero—Anderson—underwent a series of reverses and perils before riddling the opposition at the fadeout. They made millions at the box office.

In the new studio, the latest developments in the cinematic art were employed. Anderson was the "A" in Essanay, but a Chicago financier, George K. Spoor, was the "S," which also stood for sheckels. Essanay was no shoestring operation, and it bought the best.

The studio boasted a Kleiglighted stage, first west of the Mississippi.

It also included a stable where Frank "Slobs" Pimentel, local

Beatrice Perez, Washington Hi student, was a winner in the recent essay contest conducted by the County Tuberculosis and Health Association. Miss Perez' entry, "Killer at Large," won second honors in the county-wide competition.

NILES ASKS VETO ON PENSIONS, RAISE FOR SUPES, SEIDEL

Governor Warren this week was asked to veto raises and pensions for Alameda County Supervisors, and a $2000 pay boost for Supt. of Schools Vaughn Seidel. The request came from the Niles Chamber of Commerce.

The businessmen voted unanimously to back the recommendation of Dr. Tom Wilson, who called for a "no" on all three issues currently before the State Legislature.

"Local government is getting out of the hands of local voters and into the State Legislature," Dr. Wilson complained. "Since these measures have been introduced by our Alameda County senators and assemblymen, the only chance to stop them is by an appeal to the governor."

The Niles dentist reported Dr. Seidel's boost from $14,000 to $16,000 a year was authored by Assemblyman Francis Dunn; that Assemblyman Randal Dickey sponsored the supervisor pension, and that Senator Arthur Breed asked the study of a raise for supervisors here.

Dr. Wilson had been asked to study the proposals. He said he agrees with the Alameda County Taxpayers' Association that a supervisor's job should be a part-time one, and not entitled to high pay and pensions.

"The Board has assumed these administrative tasks that take up so much of its time," the speaker charged. "They ought to be a policy-making body only, and delegate these jobs to department heads and paid administrators."

He rapped the supervisors for when he termed "a lust for power." Following the vote, Secretary Vernon Ellsworth was instructed to convey the chamber's protest to the governor.

Ask Highway Signals

Stop lights at Machado's Corners and the Thornton intersection with Highway 17 were sought Tuesday by the Newark Chamber of Commerce.

Ken Foster complained that although numerous accidents take place at each crossing, and although the State Highway Department deems Thornton a four-or six-lane road nowadays, still the State doesn't think there is enough traffic to warrant signals in either location.

Ray Truscott asked for a letter to the State Highway Engineer for this district, backing a plea made several months ago by the Centerville Chamber of Commerce.

"I guess they just haven't had enough people killed there," commented LeRoy Broun.

NEWARK SHOPPING CENTER PLANS UNVEILED TO C. OF C.

Merchants who want to locate in Newark's projected $3,000,000 shopping center will have to furnish the money for building themselves, Arthur Beal, promoter of the center, told the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night.

Beal had asked a hearing before the chamber to get approval for rezoning 25 acres he has optioned Despite some searching questions, the San Leandran said after the session he was satisfied with public support. He declared in response to the questions:

1. He picked Newark for the center "because you have a $5,000,000 payroll here now, and you will have a population of 30,000." He said he has 65 signatures of local residents who support his plan.

2. The present retail district "won't be able to handle" this business.

3. He will sell large sections of his property to "stable" businessmen to erect their own stores.

4. He will contract resurfacing of the 2200-car parking area himself.

5. The population now "could easily support half the proposed center," and 5000 homes scheduled in the next few years will do better than carry it all.

6. The center will help present businesses by making them compete.

LeRoy Broun, Ken Foster, Buford Barks and Gordon Cotton quizzed Beal closely on his plans for the center between Thornton and Dairy at Birch. Foster said if Beal gets it rezoned, then is unable to find tenants, it may stalemate residential plans for the area.

Later Broun disclosed plans for a smaller center in the Smith-Peters tract. Chamber President Joe Pashote referred both centers to a zoning committee which Cotton heads, for a recommendation which eventually will be passed on to the County Planning Commission.

Broun said the second center, on five acres, will serve homes from a site at Dairy and Mayhew Landing Road. He hinted the rest of the A. D. Lewis property there soon will be subdivided to provide 900 homes.

REBEKAH CHIEF

Edith Tretzel has been elected president of Alameda County's past district deputies association of the Rebekah Lodge, succeeding Mrs. Anna Bradford.

WIFE BLOCKS TAX, LAW CAN'T HELP

"We don't handle 'em, friend," Sheehan began.

"It's all made out," replied the petitioner. "But my wife and I have been scrapping, and she won't sign it. It's a joint return and I gotta get it in by Monday. Can't you send an officer back with me to get her to sign?"

Lt. Sheehan pondered the implications of this request, then regretfully informed the unhappy taxpayer that his powers didn't extend that far.

IRVINGTON QUARRY GETS COUNTY OK

Henry Sand of Irvington yesterday got a green light from the County Planning Commission to re-establish a clay-and-gravel quarry on Durham Road.

Sand's application for a one-year use permit was granted by the commission, sitting in Oakland.

The quarry has the backing of the Irvington Chamber of Commerce, as does a $400,000 brick factory which will be located next to it, about one mile south of town. The factory's plea for rezoning comes up next Wednesday. The two issues are related because the factory plans to use Sand's clay to make bricks.

No objectors appeared in Oakland, but a single letter objecting to the quarry—and factory—was received from three local landowners, headed by Dr. J. H. Durham.

Commission Secretary J. J. Thomas suggested Sand be required to indicate the limits of his operation each time he renews his permit.

DRAINAGE BLOCKS HOMES FOR DECOTO

A 14-acre subdivision between Decoto and Hillview Crest was turned down Wednesday by the County Planning Commission for lack of storm drainage.

John Bland of Decoto was refused permission to build the tract because he wanted to drain rain waters into a 5-acre reservoir he intended to build.

Bland said he was stymied by the commission's original refusal to let him run the water into Dry Creek, then by a neighbor's refusal to grant an easement for a drain.

Commissioner Fred Mellman warned the reservoir would provide a hazard to children, and advised Bland to resubmit his plan, or to wait until a public flood-control zone is formed in the area.

Centennial Report

Newark's Chamber of Commerce contributed $25 to the Alameda County Centennial this week—the first Township organization to make such a donation.

William Hildebrand, delegate to the County Centennial commission, told members the county plans to install commemorative plaques on the Alvarado courthouse site and the Holly Sugar Mill, first beet-sugar refinery in the U. S.,

Mellmann Sides With Cement Firm

Adobe Acres may have to settle for less protective zoning than it wants, if one Planning Commissioner has his way.

Fred Mellmann, the commissioner, on Monday outmaneuvered backers of residential and farm zoning in the Niles suburb.

Mellmann prevented the commission from recommending that anything more than land north of the Western Pacific tracks be zoned for homes.

Land to the south, he said, should be left alone, since it borders on existing gravel pits and thus ought to be industrial. This was the same tack taken by John C. Houlihan, president of the Oakland City Planning Commission and attorney for the Santa Cruz Portland Cement Company, which owns some of the land in question.

Monday's meeting was billed as a "study" session, and no voting was expected. But Commissioner George Dugan moved that the whole area demanded by the homeowners—everything north of the tracks and south to Alameda Creek—be zoned for homes on 10,000-foot lots.

Mellmann objected, saying he had not understood the cement company's land was to be included—"and I don't think the rest of the commission understood it, either," he added.

"Oh yes, we do," retorted Dugan. Commission Secretary John Jay Thomas interposed that gravel pits operate under "use permits," which can be granted in any type of land.

But Mellmann persisted, and at the vote he and Commissioner Michael Markovits voted "no." Commissioner Joseph Todd was absent and the four "yes" votes of Dugan, R. J. Wright, John Gardell and P. J. DeBernardi weren't enough to swing the issue. Five votes are needed for a zoning recommendation to the Supervisors.

Then the commission recessed. On its return, and after Niles representatives had departed, Mellman moved to zone everything between the Western Pacific tracks and Southern Pacific tracks—except Kraftile — and everything west of Rock Avenue as residential. This compromise passed by unanimous vote.

However it still left the south sector dangling. On Wednesday the commission prepared to vote on that. Todd was present, but this time Gardella was absent. Dugan therefore declared:

"This leaves us right where we were before. I move we put it over until March 25—or at least when all members are present."

Mellmann stressed that the public hearings "now are closed" and proposed "we take up the matter of the balance of the land, unless

NEWARK ZONING OVERHAUL SCHEDULED SOON

Industrial and residential growth in Newark have brought up the possibility that the town's zoning may be overhauled.

This was evident Monday when the County Planning Commission refused to vote a proposed residential-industrial zoning "swap" of lands between Cotton Brother, builders, and the Southern Pacific Railroad.

Instead, the commission set April 22 and May 20 as dates on which it will consider overall rezoning of the area between Mowry and Jarvis Roads and the Freeway and the Bay.

Tuesday night, the Newark Chamber of Commerce voted to invite the commission to hold its hearings at the local school.

Gordon Cotton reported the commission declined to act on a proposal to rezone a 200-foot strip of SP property on Cherry Avenue between Central and Mowry, or a 20-acre piece owned by the Cottons farther north on Cherry.

The railroad land is zoned for homes, while the Cotton property is zoned industrial. Each wants to change—the railroad to industrial and the Cottons to residential, to accomodate an estimated 124 homes.

But the commissioners commented Newark's zoning ,now more than five years old, probably needs a major overhaul in view of new growth and of the recently-submitted Master Plan for the Township.

Cotton was named as head of a chamber committee to work on the project. He then asked and got permission from President Joe Pashote to have the chamber's directors work with him on the study, "and share the responsibility."

RENEW BLOOD APPEAL HERE AFTER 3 MONTHS

For the first time in three months, Washington Townshippers will be asked to give blood for Korea wounded or polio sufferers.

The announcement came today from Mrs. E. C. Grimmer Jr., Red Cross worker, who said the Blood Bank Day has been set for March 27.

The program has been in abeyance here since December for lack of a chairman. Mrs. Allan Walton of Centerville is in temporary charge of the work.

Mrs. Grimmer said the bank in the Veterans' Memorial Building will be open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

"This is a change from our usual date on Monday," Mrs. Grimmer added, but we hope to get a good response after three months of no donations. Remember, blood is badly needed for our armed forces and for gamma globulin, the polio serum."

Decoto's Catholic Ladies' Guild will furnish lunch for volunteer workers.

Town chairmen to contact for appointments are: Mrs. H. W. Day and Mrs. A. E. Walton, Centerville; Mrs. A. L. Olsen and Mrs. E. M. Grimmer, Niles; Mrs. M. J. Overacker, Mission San Jose; Mrs. L. R. Evans and Mrs. C. N. Hadley of Irvington; Mrs. Bernard Joseph, Decoto; Mrs. Edith Harkleroad of Hillview Crest at Decoto; Mrs. L. # IRVINGTON PHONE IMPROVEMENT NEAR Better phone service for Irvington is in sight, Douglas Smith, district manager for the Pacific Telephone Company told the local chamber of commerce Tuesday.

Smith said (1) two new trunk lines will be finished into Irvington within 90 days, and (2) dial service will be installed in 1954, "if all goes well."

The phone company executive had been invited to speak by Allan Hirsch, head of the chamber's new committee on improving utility service.

Smith explained the new trunk lines will augment the 10 already in use to make incoming and outgoing phoning easier. The dial service depends on availability of equipment, he added, but predicted it would go through.

Matt Whitfield, engineer for the Alameda County Water District, also appeared. He pledged a report soon on possibility of increasing pressure in water lines in and around Irvington.

NICKLASSON NEW ROTARY PRESIDENT

Richard Nicklasson, Niles machine shop owner, is new president of the local Rotary Club.

Nicklasson was elected by directors of the service organization last week, and will be seated in July, succeeding Clifford K. Dennis, water company executive.

Formerly secretary of the Rotary Club, Nicklasson is a longtime Rotarian and former director of the organization.

He will be succeeded in the secretary's chair by Vernon Ellsworth. Dennis—as past president—automatically becomes vice-president.

The club this week heard a talk on football by Chuck Taylor, Stanford grid mentor. George Bonde Jr. was program chairman.

The first will be Monday night in Mission San Jose, and the second is set for Thursday night in Warm Springs. All residents are urged to attend.

A 40-home tract northwest of Irvington was okehed last week by the County Planning Commission.

The subdivision is located on the Old Leal Ranch, on the Centerville Highway, and will be developed by T. D. Petersen of Diablo, a contractor. Petersen recently purchased an 85-acre parcel from Mrs. F. T. Billingsley of Hayward.

Homes in the tract will range from $13,500 to $15,000, Petersen said; and will be FHA-financed. All will have three bedrooms and double garage.

Construction is expected to begin within four weeks.

HUSKIES UPSET WILLOW GLEN WITH SPARKLING DISPLAY AT BAT, AFIELD

By BOB HIRD

The Washington Huskies came up with their biggest win of the young season last Wednesday, whacking the Willow Glen Rams 5-1 on the local diamond. The Rams are rated one of the powerhouses of the P.A.L.

The Orange and Black took a first inning lead of 1-0 as Left Fielder Ed Romero scampered from first to home on a wild throw, on an attempted pick-off play.

The Huskies harvested three more in the fifth on clutch singles by John Chacon, Frank Mirakami, Tony Nieves and Ed Romero. An unassisted triple play by Ram First Sacker George Wilson ended the Huskies' fifth frame.

Washington's final tally came in the sixth when, with the bases loaded, Willow Glen Chucker Bill Kline walked Rightfielder Ed King in from third base.

Righthander Bob Hird, twirling his first game of the campaign, was credited with the win as he threw the first five innings, holding the Rams scoreless and scattering six basehits. Hird fanned five and walked none.

Allen Olk threw the final two frames and gave up one run and one hit. Chacon paced the Huskies at bat as he collected two hits in as many tries.

HAYWARD BOWS TO HUSKY NINE WHEN CHACON EXPLODES CRUCIAL HOME RUN

Coach Irv Hird's Washington Hi nine found their hitting hats last Friday as they pounded the Hayward Farmers 9-1 on the loser's diamond.

The Huskies garnered 10 safeties off Hayward chucker Joe Duran.

The locals picked up two in the opening stanza when Right Fielder Ed King delivered a single with the bags full.

The Malemutes' biggest inning came in the third. After loading the bags with two down, Duran issued a base on balls to Shortstop Sam Ramirez to force the run in. Then the Huskies' hard-hitting Catcher John Chacon, with the count of two and two on him, rapped the next pitch over the center fielder's head for a home-run.

The clout was one of the longest in Washington history. It carried approximately 400 feet in the air. It was Chacon's second round tripper of the year.

Second Sacker Dick Arington drove out a single with runners on second and third for the Huskies' final two runs.

Right-hander Bob Lunsford went the full seven innings, holding the Farmers to six safeties, striking out five and walking two. It was his third win of the year. Tuesday's contest against San Jose Hi was called off on account of rain.

STATE'S NIMRODS BAG $15,000,000 WORTH OF MEAT IN 1951 — BUT OH! THE COST!

More than half-a-million California hunters took game birds and animals worth at least $15,000,000 in 1951, but it cost them about $50,000,000 in round figures to do it.

That's the latest estimate of the California Department of Fish and Game, which figures this way:

Each California hunter spends at least $100 annually in his pursuit of game, with other credible estimates going as high as $600. (The State agency's cut of this yearly expense is $3, or three per cent, for the hunting license.)

On the basis of a postal survey taken among a random sample of license buyers, Californians took home a total of 19,865,000 pounds of dressed deer, bears, pheasants, doves, pigeons, waterfowl, quail and rabbits.

With the retail price of beeg averaging about 75 cents a pound, and domestic fowl going for something like 50 or 60 cents a pound, the Department placed an arbitrary price of 75 cents a dressed pound for California's desirable game meat.

A total of 534,648 persons purchased hunting licenses in the 1951 period covered, the last year for which complete estimates are available.

Put all the figures together, and you'll come up with the astronomical conclusions of the State agency. And even the final total is conservative, as the 1951 harvest of sage hens, tree squirrels, wild hogs and boars, predators and fur-bearing mammals is not included.

SPORTS SPOTLITE

This week's two athletes—in profile — are Raul and Ray Orozco.

Although Raul is the oldest brother, both are juniors at Washington Hi.

Raul, better known at "Roto," has starred in basketball, baseball and football.

He played two years of basketball under Coach Don Wolfe and made the All-Valley team in his Sophomore year. This year was his first on the varsity basketball quintet.

Raul turned out to be one of the team's most valuable players. He poured 24 points through the hoop during a practice game this year.

He has played two years of B football under Coach Irv Hird as an end, and this year on Coach Jud Taylor's varsity eleven was a mainstay at halfback.

Raul's first year of baseball was on the Frosh-Soph team as a pitcher. His Sophomore year he moved up to the varsity as a pitcher and outfielder and is doing the same this year.

"Roto" is president of the Junior class and as far as the future is concerned, he has not decided, he says.

Brother Ray also has taken part in basketball, baseball and football.

Basketball is his best sport and he has had three years experience. His first was on the D team of Coach Don Wolfe, and the last two years he made the "130" team. Playing center spot this year, he earned a berth on the first string All-SCVAL team and wound up second in league scoring.

This year was Ray's first of football experience. He held down the left end slot on Coach Irv Hird's starting B eleven.

He played one year of baseball, in his Sophomore year, as a pitcher on the Frosh-Soph team.

As far as the future is concerned, Ray says he's not decided either.

PLAN COMMISSION ROWS ON 'ACRES'

Mr. Dugan and his supporters are set on zoning it all residential."

Dugan rejected this hint of compromise and the issue was again recessed until next Wednesday.

George Roeding Jr., nursery owner, tried to get his 130-acre property included in the residential zoning. But Mellman and Dugan both pointed out this would require an entirely new set of hearings.

The issue generated some heat at Tuesday's session of the Niles Chamber of Commerce. Chamber President C. W. Chrysler, who lives in the tract, called Monday's meeting "a farce," and charged:

"Land to the windward allowed to be used for industry would let smoke and fumes blow onto Adobe Acres and render it worthless for nice homes.

"The Planning Commission is going to do this, despite the fact that its own technicians, 99 per cent of the residents, almost all the property-owners, this chamber, and the town's businessmen are against it.

"The people of this Township have the good judgment to know what's best for them. After seeing how this was mishandled, I think we should study incorporation of the whole Township for the benefit of the people who live here."

At a public meeting in Niles last Thursday, industry opposition to home zoning failed to materialize.

R. D. Rodenberger, representative of the Southern Pacific Railroad, said his firm would advance no objection to zoning of the area. He said the S.P. favors zoning in the Township and is presently working for a zone adjustment in its Newark industrial tract where a $1,000,000 plant will be built as soon as a strip of land can be rezoned... He mentioned the Newark industry as an example of why the railroad would welcome a clarification of zoning in Niles.

Another sidelight of Rodenberger's appearance was revelation by the railroad man that his company doesn't intend to part with its property along the north side of First Street here. The S.P. property faces the main business district of Niles and has long been sought by individuals for commercial development.

Rodenberger said the S.P. has plans for enlarging switching facilities and building a roundhouse here. The larger setup will be due partly to expected expanded rail traffic because of the location of the new Ford Motor Co. assembly plant at Milpitas, Rodenberger said.

The roofing industry is the largest user of ground mica, taking more than half the total production.

URGE FLOOD CURBS NOW IN ALVARADO, 'CREST

The county should start flood-control and drainage work around Hayward, Hillview Crest and Alvarado as soon as possible, advisors of the Flood Control District agreed here last week.

The advisory commission, headed by W. D. Patterson of Newark, also put out a feeler to Livermore in a last effort to bring that area into Zone 5, with Washington Township.

If the feeler fails, Patterson has indicated, he will try to get the commission to recommend that Washington Township go it alone. A Livermore confab is set for March 30.

Meeting in the Centerville County Building, the commission asked the county to start work at once on Zone 3-a, which includes the northmost end of the Township. The entire job is expected to cost $3,700,000.

H. G. Crowle, engineer, said it will "open up several thousand acres of land for residential, industrial and commercial development," by solving existing flood and drainage problems.

One of the tracts blocked by lack of drainage is Treeview, across the highway from Hillview Crest. Some 600 homes are involved.

NEWARK TO HOST COUNTY SCHOOLMEN

Newark's Elementary School Board last week voted to extend an invitation to the Alameda County Trustees Association to hold their next meeting, May 21, in the Newark School auditorium.

A dinner meeting is planned and it will be the first time the County Association has met in Newark. The Newark Board on March 19 will visit other schools in the Bay Area to look at stage draperies before deciding what type of draperies to order for the local school.

Friday, March 20, is the date of a meeting at the Oakland Board of Education called by the State Department of Education on the allocation of Proposition 2 money. The board has asked Principal Jack MacGregor to attend.

The Board voted to have Miss Mary Shea attend a conference on elementary schools called by the California State Department of Education. The conference will be held during Easter vacation, March 29 through April 1.

A survey showed that Newark does not have sufficient children with parents employed by the Federal government to qualify for federal aid, according to President S. G. Scott.

Where's the Fire?

Wednesday, March 11, Niles, 6:50 p.m., false alarm.

Monday, March 16, Niles, 8:20 p.m., car on fire at Belvoir Hotel.

TWO DRIVERS FOR DECOTO FIREMEN

Two full-time drivers for the Decoto Fire Department probably will be hired within a few weeks.

This was the outcome of a meeting of Decoto's fire commissioners this week, at which time they adopted a $20,000 budget, up $3000 from last year.

Commissioners Carl Zwissig, A. A. Amaral and Keith Whipple, and Chief Roland Bendel agreed (1) the drivers are needed to keep abreast of residential and industrial growth, (2) they will have to be paid about $300 a month each, (3) as soon as they are hired, insurance rates probably will fall, and (4) no raise in the current 50-cent tax rate will be necessary because of increased assessed values in the area.

The fire district budget shows $11,280 for wages this year to provide the drivers.

Fire Chief Roland Bendel said they probably would be recruited from the ranks of the town's present volunteer firemen.

BUSY WEEK AHEAD FOR GOVT. WOMEN

Two meetings of Women for Better Government—both open to the public, male and female alike—are announced for next week.

On Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Washington High School, the non-partisan study group has scheduled a session on county supervisors' jobs. Don Wolfe, high school fcaulty member, will lead the forum.

On Tuesday, at 10 a.m. in the County Building auditorium, Roderick Petersen, public relations director for the Alameda County Taxpayers' Association, will discuss proposed legislation, including raises for supervisors and the so-called "adult education frill" curbs.

Mrs. Harold Korell, president of WFBG, stresses the public is welcome to both sessions.

Safe Shaft Cleaner

When grass or weed stems bind tightly around revolving shafts or axles of farm equipment, it's a vexing and sometimes dangerous job to dig them loose. But here's a safe shaft-cleaner; a steel quarter or half-inch rod, with an 8 or 10-inch handle, and a sharp hook on one end. With it you can break the stems and clean the shaft without danger of losing a finger or hand—even if you've been careless enough to leave the shaft in motion. One farmer made several, one for each implement where wrapped shafts was a problem.

Grit Self-Feeder

It takes just a few minutes to make this handy grit, or oyster shell self feeder for poultry. All you need is a nail keg and a tin can. Saw three inches off the bottom end of one stave of the keg for the outlet. Then, use a one-pound coffee can for the feed trough. Cut this down the seam—then back along the bottom three inches. Then bend the sides out to form "wings." Finally, shape the scoop-like bottom of the can so it fits into the keg opening, tack the "wings" to the keg, and you have a feeder!

MYSTERY MAN WAS 'IN' WITH FLYNN

Did you guess Lee Williams was our subject last week? Try this one for size. See if you can guess who the Mystery Man is without having to hunt for the answer elsewhere in this issue.

He was born in Idaho in 1916. When a small boy, he moved to Ogden, Utah, and went through school there. He developed into a fair athlete—took part in boxing, football, basketball.

After graduation from high school, our Mystery Man found himself in the midst of the Depression. He tried working as a waiter and dishwasher in Utah restaurants, then migrated to California.

He worked in hotels in Los Angeles, at the Mark Hopkins in San Francisco, and two summers at Cal-Neva Lodge .

"Yes, I knew Bones Remmer," admits our subject. "I even got money out of him—he signed my paycheck." Remmer owned Cal-Neva.

Working at the Lodge, our Mystery Man rubbed elbows with many famous folk. In fact, he pushed leather with at least one—Erroll Flynn.

Flynn was a good boxer and liked to work out with our muscular youth. Erroll could even give Max Baer a tussel on occasion, he recalls. And Flynn wasn't a bad sort, he says.

Our Mystery Man tried selling milk for a big San Francisco distributor, then went into the real estate business for himself in Oakland in 1940. About this time, he met a pretty girl at church. They were married, and now have three children.

During the war, our man worked for Moore Shipyards as a shipfitter, building submarine tenders. He quit that to manufacture handtools for the government, in Oakland. The tools were sold all over the United States, Canada and South America, and their sale resulted in several glamorous trips.

He came to Washington Township in 1947, has lived here ever since.

His business is building up. He has sold about 100 of his specially-designed items in the past few years, expects to step up that rate and sell 200 in the next 18 months.

His hobby is his work—"no time for anything else," he says, except his church duties.

Guess Who?

ESSANAY DAYS: 'EVERY BUILDING IN NILES HAD BULLET HOLES IN IT'

Actors Used Niles As Shooting Gallery

vaquero, kept Essanay's all-important horseflesh.

Another stable trotted the streets of Niles: the gang of troupers retained by Anderson to play supporting roles in his pictures. There was Carl Stockdale, True Boardman and Brinsley Shaw—villains, who one day used to snort and glower purposefully under a sombrero in virtuous pursuit, and the next day welter in gore as a victim of virtue's reward. Harry Todd and his wife, Margaret, played serio-comic parts. Gus Carney and Vic Potel were stars of their own comedy series. Fred Church was typed as a hero. A drove of lady hams played supporting roles.

The primitive films were hard on the eyes. Therefore what the actors and actresses lacked in finesse they had to make up in exaggerated gestures. Anderson, born Max Aaronson of Pine Bluff, Ark., showed the way. His trademark was a profile shot arranged to tune out his powerful jowls and to show off the piercing splendor of his eyes. Since developing techniques were poor, the more white he showed, the better they could be seen.

Anderson is remembered vividly by Old Nilesans. Some liked him, but to a man they refer to him this day as "Mister Anderson." He was the boss, and he showed it, Hiring and firing with lordly temper, Broncho Billy earned the local name of an eccentric.

Directing a film, he would take offense at some fancied bit of fumbling, howl to a worker that he was fired. Five minutes later Anderson would be screaming for the man to be back at his task. Veteran employees became conditioned to this. They would retire to the wings to sit out the storm. Then after a few minutes they would resume their places. Nothing was said—until the next time.

Anderson was the king of Essanay, and the king had his court. An insatiable sports fan, Broncho Billy surrounded himself with practitioners of his two favorite sports—boxing and baseball.

He arrived in Niles, and within weeks, he had recruited an entourage of hired musclemen.

Niles gloried in the ensuing razzle-dazzle. It was always a sporting town, and community ego expanded when Anderson decided to buy a baseball club. His Essanay Indians, he said, would be nothing less than major league. Therefore he proved himself willing to hire any strong lad who showed proficiency with the willow.

By 1914, the Essanay Indians were easily the match for any Coast League club. Fodder Dolan, a whip-armed Hibernian, terrorized the neighborhood semi-pros with his curves and speedballs. In the field or at the plate, Al Breslauer, Chief Esola, Jack and Marty Killilea, Eddie Fries and Kite Robinson were the heroes of Niles youth. They swept all before them, mangled visiting Coast League teams, and on one memorable day forced the hated Newark nine to retire from the field when Dolan struck out the first nine men who faced him.

Anderson was a shameless proselyter. Anybody who could bat .350 could work for Essanay, whether the studio needed him or not. In the case of Rollie Totheroh, this panned out to Essanay's benefit.

Totheroh was a talented San Rafael boy who joined Anderson after Anderson's brief sojourn in Marin County. He joined strictly to play ball. But after awhile with the studio, he picked up the rudiments of photography, became a cameraman. Later when Charlie Chaplin came to Niles, Totheroh attached himself to the famed comic, became his cameraman.

When Chaplin left Essanay, Totheroh left with him. He worked for Chaplin for 37 years, has filmed every one of his pictures, down to and including the recent "Limelight."

Anderson's whims brought Niles a caliber of sports never approached since.

In addition to the ballplayers Anderson liked to surround himself with prizefighters. He would establish them in quarters and train them for title bouts—or just plain ham-and-egg contests on which he would bet.

Some of the cauliflower gentry included Heavyweight Soldier Elder, Denver Jack Geyer, Red Watson, Spider Roach, Freddie Bogan, and Al Herman. They also added spice to life in Movietown.

Watson fought many distinguished battles as a lightweight before succumbing to drugs. One of his fights was the last 20-round contest ever fought in California. Roach, a classy featherweight, is still boxing coach at the Olympic Club.

Elder could have been a top-notcher, contemporaries say, except that he liked to drink. One memorable night in Oakland, he disagreed with his manager and climbed into the ring drunk. The manager leaped in after him, and to the vast amusement of the fans, challenged his protege and knocked him out.

Bert Silveira, local barber who used to tend bar for Judge Silva...where Joe's Corner now stands, recalls friendly tavern bouts between the judge, who came from a famous family of local blacksmiths, and who was a formidable man with his fists.

"They'd go in the back room and put on the gloves," Silveira remembers. "After a couple of rounds, I'd bring them big steins of beer and they'd take them in their gloves, like this, and drink them down."

The sporting element, plus the cowboys that Essanay imported, brought an exciting, glamorous element to Niles. Small wonder that the local girls fell for them. Half a dozen beauties—including some from the town's First Families—succumbed to the foreigners' charms and married them. Alas, the marriages all ended unhappily!

One wedding produced a glamorous episode. Kite Robinson brought his bride back from their honeymoon, and the whole movie company staged an impromptu parade from the station right through town. Those who saw it never forgot.

The Wild West roles they played during the day prompted some of the celluloid cowboys to continue them at night. Whole posses of Essanay cowpokes used to mount cayuses at dusk, load their six-guns, and gallop shrieking out of the studio on First Street. Their destinations were the bars in Niles, or Centerville, or the other towns nerby. They didn't mind using the pistols en route, wham - bam - blooie! These were real bullets and the citizens along the road learned to stay indoors.

Payday at the studio was Tuesday, which meant hangovers Wednesday and no work till Friday. Payday was changed to Friday to combat the problem, but then the celebration lasted until the following week-end.

Fred Rogers, Centerville game warden, who used to tend bar at the Wesley Hotel, will tell you about the time Bill Cato, Anderson's "'ridin' double," caught an Oakland dude trying to undercut him by working for nothing. Cato, a real hard hombre from Los Banos, shot at the city man's feet. He left town.

Texas George, Anderson's "shootin' double," packed plenty of authority with a Colt. Rogers says:

"One night he shot out every light in Niles. Then one afternoon in the bar a couple of cowboys made some crack he didn't like and George went for his guns. But for the first time, he'd left them upstairs. When he ran to get them, the other two guys looked at each other, got up, ran out, jumped on their horses and left town."

Rogers also remembers an incident involving Pat Rooney, a handsome giant who was Anderson's chauffeur and who sometimes doubled as an actor. One night, Rooney—whose real name was Fred Slugovich—came into the hotel bar and demanded a horse from "Slobs" Pimentel, the stable boss, who was enjoying an apertif.

"No horses after six o'clock, that's orders," parried Pimentel.

Rooney reached for his revolver and Pimentel, correctly gauging the giant's state of mind, turned and fled into the street.

Rooney followed him and unlimbered his artillery. Pimentel prudently ducked behind some convenient boxcars on the SP siding, and Rooney emptied his gun, to the vast alarm of the town's merchants, who were shutting up what remained of their shops.

It was shortly after this, according to Rogers, that Sheriff Frank Barnett and a covey of deputies arrived in Niles and relieved the Essanay players of their live ammunition.

"There wasn't a building in town that didn't have holes in it," Rogers recalls with relish.

SUZY SEZ...

I wonder if anyone else feels as I do, after thumbing through the current magazines, that the lovely model rooms would be most uncomfortable to live in? Designers forget that many families live so close to their neighbors that picture windows, or no blinds on three or four sides of a house would provide entertainment for the whole block. As a pajama-and-robe-until noon wearer, I am grateful for the sheer curtains in my kitchen that allow me to continue my lazy habit. It may not be in the latest decorative pictures, but it's more private.

* * * *

There's been a lot of talk lately about the possibility of letting our children play after hours at the Thornton Avenue School, here in Orchard Park. It would be nice if the mothers could arrange for after-hours and holiday supervision at the playground, as school regulations prohibit play-yard use without adequate supervision. The same idea would be very welcome at other Township schools this summer. With no place for our youngsters to go, they play in the streets or highways.

* * * *

The next snapshot you take of baby might turn out better if you put a piece of cellophane tape on his hand, then capture his expression while he plays with it. We tried this idea, and it works.

* * * *

Recent frosts and chilly weather have lead our neighbor's boy to promise to shovel our walks, if we wake up some morning to a layer of snow. He feels he could make a fortune, eight or ten dollars at least, if the weatherman would only cooperate. It must be marvelous to consider such a small amount of money all you could want. I can spend that much at the market and arrive home with only one bag of groceries.

* * * *

Often the man most certain that he is not making enough to support a wife is already married.

* * * *

I can hardly wait to see the roses in bloom on the fence near Highway 17, north of Centerville. Last year it was so unusual that visitors from the city frequently mentioned it as a step in the right direction, away from billboards, and barbed wire.

* * * *

Our favorite teen-ager says she thinks the reason multi-recorded records are so popular is that the singer can't blame anyone but himself for the flat notes.

So long . . .

CIVIL DEFENSE IN ACTION

Where There's a Will There's a Way: Or How to House the Skywatchers

THE HOUSE THAT WILL BUILT. In three hours, volunteers of the Ground Observer Corps put up this prefabricated building at Auburn so that plane spotters would have shelter. Civil Defense and county officials cooperated to get the job done. Louise Renteria, a volunteer skywatcher from Bowman, takes the first peek as George Brandlein, assistant CD coordinator for Placer County, looks on. (State Office of Civil Defense photo)

Initiative, patriotism and generosity are combining forces in many parts of California today to find solutions to vexing problems of housing volunteer skywatchers in suitable shelters.

On July 14 the U. S. Air Force ordered activation of the Ground Observer Corps on 24-hour duty in 27 states to "plug the holes" in the Nation's radar screen against sneak enemy attack. Since then the enrollment of volunteers and the provision of suitable posts for them have presented difficult situations.

Housing No. 1 Need

Obviously, the cooperative householder who donated his front porch or living room for use of the skywatchers on part-time duty could not be asked to do so on a 'round-the-clock basis. Nor could the volunteers who donate their time to scan the skies be expected to perform their duties on some bare, unprotected hilltop.

In many cases, existing building space, some with slight modifications or alterations, was donated by local firms, business groups and city and county jurisdictions for use as observer posts. In many other spots throughout the State, however, it was obvious that unless some sort of building or shelter were provided, there just wouldn't be any ground observer post in necessary locations.

The horns of the dilemma have been seized and given a deft twist in various directions by those who have recognized the seriousness of the problem.

In Placer County, which by no means could be classed as a likely target area, officials have realized the vital role their observation posts play in giving advance warning of possible attack to urban communities far to the south.

When it was determined that provision could be made in certain existing structures at four of the seven designated observation sites, E. E. Burnett, county supervisor of the GOC, and George Bradlein, Civil Defense Coordinator, took the problem of the other three shelters to the county supervisors. This body, under the chairmanship of J. B. Paolini, assigned the task to Howard Gower, the county maintenance superintendent, and appropriated the necessary funds for him to build three observation posts "from the ground up."

$390 Cost Per House

Mr. Gower designed and built three pre-fabricated units in the county maintenance shops which two men could truck out to the post sites and assemble in two or three hours. A unique feature of the units is their construction in such a manner as to permit salvage of the material for other use should the corps become deactivated. The three units, built and installed at a total cost of $390 each, are already in full-time use.

Similarly, in Tuolumne County, Local 2196 of the Carpenters Union in Sonora voted to donate the labor for construction of five pre-fabricated posts. Plans for the posts as well as a complete model of the 16-foot tower-like structures, were developed by the local Civil Defense office under direction of Harry Hall, operational area Civil Defense coordinator.

Costs of the individual posts were estimated at about $235 per unit, for which the county board of supervisors made an appropriation of $1,000 as a "starter."

City Council Helps

In Concord, site of one of Contra Costa County's 11 observation posts, a 20-foot tower with a glass-enclosed "dog-house" stands in the city ballpark as monument to the public spirit and patriotism of the town's citizens. "The House That Many Jacks Built," as it has become known locally, had its inception in City Council action which provided the space for the tower and an appropriation of $150 for materials.

To this was added $305 contributed by local merchants and private citizens and 250 man-hours of labor given by Local 2046 of the AFL Carpenters Union. The end result is an efficient, comfortable vantage point from which volunteers are maintaining their 24-hour watch as a link in the nationwide chain of "Operation Skywatch."

DECOTO BUDDIES SERVING IN KOREA

Two Decoto youths, Washington Hi classmates, recently arrived in Korea and are serving with the 2d Infantry Division. They are:

Pvt. Ralph G. Rojas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Rojas, 807 Fourteenth Street, and Pvt. Raymond A. Montellano, son of Mrs. Grace Sanchez of Whipple Road, and whose wife, Mrs. Raymond Montellano, lives at 507 Seventh Street.

Both men, former students at Washington Union High School in Centerville, entered the Army in August, 1952, and received their basic training at Fort Ord.

Rojas is a former employee of Alaco Preserving Co. and Montellano was employed by Pacific States Steel Corp.

SON IN KOREA

Capt. Mancell R. Hough recently arrived in Korea and has been assigned as management officer for the 226th Ordinance Base Depot. The son of Mancell Hough of Decoto, Capt. Hough was previously stationed at the Sierra Ordinance Depot.

Where's Hildegarde?

Hildegarde Pelton, 32, suspected "kiss-slayer" of her ex-GI spouse in Niles February 1, slipped neatly through the law's clutches, it was learned here this week.

The blonde former fraulein whom William Pelton married overseas in 1947 actually was in custody of border authorities who didn't know her identity.

Sheriff's Capt. R. E. Condon, who signed a murder warrant for the fugitive Hildegarde on February 5, said fingerprint files disclose she was held briefly in Nogales, Ariz., after being put off a Mexican train for failure to exhibit a passport, also on February 5.

All-points bulletins didn't reach Nogales until after she was released, Capt. Condon said. Hildegarde is believed in Mexico, and authorities there have been alerted

KRAFTILE LOOKS FOR RECORD '53

Kraftile sales for 1952 totaled $623,931—and the management of the Niles factory predicts 1953 will be the biggest year in its history.

These items were disclosed today in a report to Kraftile stockholders from President Charles W. Kraft.

Kraft said the sales volume in 1952 was down from the peak year of 1951, mainly because Kraftile dropped the sale of items it doesn't manufacture itself. These sales fell from $205,991 in 1951 to a mere $30,755 last year.

Net profit for 1952 was $32,064, Kraft's report announced. This was equal to dividends of 20 cents per share. Total earnings for the year, before taxes, debt reduction and related items, was $51,784—equal to $1.15 per share.

In his report, Kraft pointed out that:

1. "The company is taking on some of the aspects of a 'co-operative.' Fifteen employees, not including the president, now own 23 per cent of the outstanding shares."

2. Employment is 72 persons, and labor turnover is below 7 per cent.

3. Only two accidents were reported in 1952.

4. Basic wages were boosted 6½ cents per hour in mid-year. Welfare costs, including $5620 for pensions, totaled $29,163.

Kraft pointed out the company forged ahead despite heavy rains, a prolonged carpenters' strike, and general uncertainty among contractors. A large inventory carryover, plus increasing sales of Niles-made clay products, makes the outlook for 1953 very bright, Kraft concluded.

California produces 95 per cent of the nation's fig crop.

MASTER PLAN . . . Here is a picture of the County Planning Commission's suggestion for a guide to future planning in Washington Township. It was first presented two months ago. Now commission staff members are exhibiting it around the Township to get local ideas for possible changes. Striking features are the agricultural "buffer" strips (wide horizontal lines) which separate towns. Wavy vertical lines (around Newark, south of Decoto) indicate industrial areas. Solid horizontal lines (Centerville, Irvington) are proposed for urban residential development, while dots (near Mission San Jose) are for larger lots—rural residences. Diagonals (along Alameda Creek) are set aside for parks or recreation. (Photo Courtesy Hayward Review)

MORE ON PLANNING STAFF'S BLUEPRINT FOR A NEWARK OF 30,000 PEOPLE

(Second of A Series)

The Alameda County Planning Commission staff recently submitted its suggestions for an orderly growth of Newark to an eventual city of 30,000.

Believing this should be of interest not only to Newarkers but to the rest of Washington Township, now taking the first steps for "master planning," The Register is printing the report. Last month we published the first two points made by the commission staff. The following are the final points.

"We believe by rezoning and accepting the fact that there are desirable limits to future growth, Newark can avoid the excesses and errors of cities which sprawl over the countryside without reason or identity. Meanwhile, by definite future growth to fit a logical boundary, and by keeping development compact and efficient, the town can keep governmental expenses and taxes to a minimum. Less tangible, but just as important, the friendly and democratic atmosphere of a small city cannot be maintained with a population greatly in excess of that recommended for Newark."

"Third, each type of land use should be separated and located so that each can expand to its logical limits without interference from the others.

"This is accomplished in the Newark plan. At the same time, residence, business and industry are closely related to one another. Industry is given heavier emphasis in Newark than in the other parts of the Township because of her enviable location astride transportation arteries. Prevailing winds would carry industrial smoke to the southwest, over the open countryside where it would be least inconvenient. Residential areas would lie to the east of the industrial area and surrounding the central business district.

"The center of town would be equally convenient from practically all parts and would contain not only a large, compact central shopping district, but also a civic center and park. The residential areas are capable of expanding outward from presently built-up areas to the outer limits of the town. The central business district, although concentrated, has been planned for expansion with adequate area to provide offstreet parking for the ultimate population of Newark.

"Fourth, it appears desirable that industries should be encouraged to develop in the proper locations, and each community should have enough industry to be financially sound, provide local employment opportunities and a broad economic base.

"Adherence to this principle is very apparent in the plan for Newark; in fact, because of its ideal location in the Township, it is logical to expect greater emphasis for industry here than elsewhere in the Township. Enough low-priced industrial land is available near Newark to satisfy future needs. A deep-water shipping channel passes close inshore, running south to Alviso. With little effort, a channel could be dredged into Newark where an ideally located port, next to rail and highway, could serve industries on both sides of the Bay. The industrial area of Newark would lie to the west of Newark where it would be capable of great expansion, and where it would be served by rail lines to all four points of the compas.

"A fifth principle is that agriculture could be considered a fundamental part of the plan and the local economy.

"Surrounding Newark on the north and south, the plan indicates large areas which are presently used for agriculture and which are preserved for that purpose. These lands will be near to local markets, convenient to transportation for farm produce and suitable because of soil productivity for farm crops and dairies. Although they lie outside the developed area of the town, they are considered to be an integral part of the plan and of the town's economy. Business areas of Newark will be logical trading areas for adjacent farmers. By protecting these rural areas from encroachment by conflicting urban land uses, the present essential agricultural base can be preserved."

The report continues:

"Sixth, moderate residential densities have been recommended throughout the township in order to provide adequate open space and to foster the character of the area. An average of four families per acre is suggested in the residential areas of Newark. This standard would not necessarily be applied uniformly throughout the town, but would permit higher densities in some parts of town and lower densities elsewhere. It would be appropriate, for instance, to include multiple dwellings nearer the center of town, and larger parcels on the outskirts.

"Seventh, the principle that residential neighborhoods should be formed with an elementary school as a center and with shopping and other community facilities conveniently located is adhered to in the plan for Newark. The average neighborhood unit, of which there are nine in the plan, average about 250 acres in area, each housing approximately 3500 to 4500 people, enough to support a modest-size elementary school within walking distance of all parts. Elementary school sites should contain about ten acres to accommodate a liberal space for the grounds and a small playground on playfield for the neighborhood. Cooperation between school and recreation officials can achieve maximum use of the combined facilities by providing for

NEW CRACKDOWN ON GARBAGE DUMPERS

A campaign to end illegal garbage dumping along county roads was set in motion here this week by Sheriff's Capt. Richard E. Condon.

"We have received numerous complaints from rural homeowners about trash and garbage being dumped near their property," Capt. Condon explained.

He reminded violators that county ordinances make such dumping a misdemeanor, punishable by $500 fine and six months' imprisonment. Judges have been assessing $25 and $50 fines against culprits.

County health officers term roadside dumping a threat to health and a breeder of flies.

Capt. Condon said his deputies have been alerted to watch for violators.

NEWARK YC GIVES REC' DISTRICT $430

The Newark Youth Center Association last week voted to give $450 to the Newark Recreation District so the district can start a program immediately.

The program for the present will be limited to two hours after school and six hours on Saturday at the Newark School grounds. The donation will insure the district's program until June.

The Youth Center Association will continue to function in an advisory capacity to the district and will continue to help with camperships for the Newark youth. Members of the Association voted to empower the board of directors to lease the Youth Center building to the recreation district for a nominal sum. The lease will cover the taxes and insurance.

It was agreed that the Association will hold a carnival this year. Funds from the carnival will go to the District to insure continuance of the program as State money will not be available until September.

Alex de Knoop was nominated to the board of directors. He will succeed Chester Gunn whose term has expired. Other members of the board of directors are William Beck, Richard Texera, Ethel Auchard and Ken Foster. New members welcomed at the last meeting were Judson Taylor, Robert Lamp, Carl Hersey, Ed Walters and Mrs. Earl Willburn.

CONG. MILLER TO AID CENTENNIAL

Chairman Chester Stanley of the Alameda County Board of Supervisors announced that Congressman George P. Miller of Alameda has offered the services of his office in connection with the forthcoming Alameda County centennial.

Congressman Miller will serve as a member of the general committee on arrangements along with other prominent political and civic leaders, Stanley said.

To date the city councils of Piedmont, Berkeley, Alameda, San Leandro, Hayward and Livermore have named official members of the committee. Chambers of commerce throughout the county will have representatives on the committees.

While the actual one hundredth birthday of the county falls on March 28, the celebration most likely will be postponed until June when weather conditions are more favorable, the chairman added.

Alameda County was carved out of Contra Costa County and Santa Clara counties. For the first two years the county government was operated by a Court of Sessions, the first supervisors being selected in 1855.

Alvarado was the first county seat with honors later going to San Leandro, Brooklyn and finally Oakland.

Six Lose Licenses

Six township drivers lost their licenses this week by action of the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

Douglas E. Cayard of Niles had his license revoked for a third drunk driving conviction, imposed last September 26.

Suspensions went to John B. Fitch of Newark, for failure to pay an accident judgment; to Alfonso Sanchez of Decoto for failure to appear for re-examination; and to Robert O. Lunsford and Max Galvan of Newark, and Juan M. Flores of Alvarado for failure to prove insurance after an accident.

Two Decoto drivers, Eusebis R. Lopez and Edward J. Neves, escaped suspensions for drunk driving convictions.

One man, Benny M. Salazar of Decoto ,had his license reinstated.

SEEK REPORT ON WATER DISTRICT

Will new subdivisions and industry force the Alameda County Water District into new bond issues?

W. R. Goodwin, Centerville Chamber of Commerce member, demanded an answer Monday at the chamber's luncheon meeting.

Following an informal report from PG&E Manager Harry Weber that district water percolation has raised the level of underground water in the company's wells, Goodwin commented:

"Yes, but have they reached their capacity in distribution? In view of these new homes and factories, won't they need new lines, and won't that mean a bond issue? I'd like to know."

Goodwin said he wants to see a report of "finances and facilities," the same as "the chamber got from the Union Sanitary District."

A. E. Alameda supported the request, saying:

"They should keep the public posted."

No official action was forthcoming from the membership, however.

EXPERTS' PLAN FOR CITY OF NEWARK

cooperative development of the school grounds for adult as well as child recreation.

"A large 50-acre high school campus is indicated on the plan, convenient to most of the residential area. A junior high school could be combined at the same site, and it would be appropriate to make the high school a community cultural center as well as to develop portions of the site for a community playfield and park. Bus service would be necessary, if at all, only to the southermost portion of the town and surrounding agricultural areas.

"Neighborhoods are bordered mainly by heavier traffic arterials or by different types of land uses. Small shopping centers are located approximately one mile apart within the residential area to serve day-to-day shopping needs. This arrangement will make it possible for housewives to walk to market from anywhere within the town. Heavier shopping would be done in the central business district, at most only a short automobile ride from the fartherest edge of the community.

"The eighth and final general principle which guided the preparation of the plan was that streets and highways should be designed and classified by their functions to avoid economic waste and achieve a safe traffic flow. The framework for the Newark street system is the Eastshore Freeway and the major cross-town arterial connecting the Dumbarton Bridge with Newark, Centerville and the east. The Freeway is already ideally located at the edge of town — conveniently accessible without being disruptive. Jarvis Road provides the most direct connection between Dumbarton Bridge and the Freeway and marks the northern boundary of the town. Mowry Avenue would be the southern boundary, leading traffic from the Freeway to future industrial areas west of town. Two major cross-town collector streets run in a north-south direction, connecting Jarvis Road and Mowry Avenue. These are Lincoln-Birch Road and a new street parallel and west of the Southern Pacific Railroad tracks. About midway between, Cherry Avenue would parallel them, separating residential and industrial areas and giving access to the east edge of the downtown district.

"Other less important streets provide access to various desidence neighborhoods and to the industrial area. It is noteworthy that the central business district has no major street running through it. The entire street system is laid out with the center of town as a reference and access to it is easy and direct from every part of the area. On the other hand, traffic not headed for the central district can either skirt around it at a distance or pass alongside it on one of the major streets surrounding the district. If the central district were developed with ample parking space adjoining these major streets, it would be the most welcome possible invitation to passing motorists to stop and shop. By eliminating through traffic, the business center will avoid strangulation from traffic congestion caused by through traffic.

"The central business district is shown as a compact development, on the site of the existing business district. It lies in the heart of town, equally close to residence and industry. According to normal requirements, a town the future size of Newark would require approximately 53 acres for central shopping and accessory parking space. The civic center and park to the east will foster close and efficient interchange between the town government and the business community.

"The preliminary plan for Newark looks far into the future. It is a view of what Newark can be. There is nothing in the plan that cannot be accomplished by the people of Newark using the existing broad powers of government and the powerful initiative of private endeavor. The important thing now is to create the plan, and to be sure that the plan is worthy of the men and women who will live in Newark a quarter or a half century from now. Once the people of Newark can clearly see the goal, the achievement is only a matter of patience and hard work."

FINED FOR ENTRY

REBER PLAN STUDY

Last week the Centerville Chamber of Commerce drew attention to the controversial Reber Plan again by endorsing a State-sponsored study of the issue. One chamber officer commented the plan has never had a fair shake, and that an impartial investigation has never been made. Whether or not this is so, there is currently before the Legislature a bill to earmark $250,000 for such a study. It was this bill that Centerville's businessmen endorsed.

The Reber Plan, named for its originator, a San Francisco engineer, has generated more heat than light since it was first proposed. Briefly, it envisions two dams, one across the Bay near Richmond, and the second between Alameda and Hunter's Point. These dams, Reber enthusiasts say, would (1) gradually store up fresh water from inland creeks and rivers, for later use in agriculture and industry, (2) keep salt water from creeping further inland and spoiling wells and crops, and (3) reclaim thousands of additional acres of tide land along the Bay for homes and factories.

Opponents claim the Reber Plan cost would be out of proportion to its benefits, even if there were any, which the opponents dispute. They also predict it would raise water levels along the Sacramento and San Joaquin Rivers, flood thousands of fertile acres.

The idea is not new, though Reber's applications of it are. State officials and Army engineers have submitted a dozen reports on salt-water barriers, dating back as far as 1880. In 1949, an Assembly committee headed by Assemblyman Dolwig concluded none of Reber's plans were feasible, with the possible exception of the southern dam, which could also be used for a vehicle crossing.

The northern dam is more fiercely opposed, especially by the Navy. In May, 1952,Secretary of the Navy Kimball stated any such barrier, whether provided with locks or other apparatus to carry warships, would be entirely unacceptable from the standpoint of national defense, since it might block the Mare Island shipyards.

Now the Toll Bridge Authority has okehed a bridge between Richmond and San Rafael. Governor Warren, who heads this bureau, explains that since the Navy won't permit a dam, and since traffic requires it, the bridge will have to proceed. It has been opposed by Reber-ites who thought the dam could provide the crossing instead.

The problems of water conservation and salt-water control—as well as Bay crossings—still remain. Therefore the Governor is backing the study proposed by the Legislature, to see if modifications of the Reber Plan cannot be put into effect. Water conservation, salinity crontrol, and another Bay span are of great—if not dramatic—importance to Southern Alameda County. The Centerville Chamber's action is in line with this region's best interests.

FARM PROTECTION

We call attention to an editorial in the Alameda County Farm Bureau News rapping Supervisor Bartell for his opposition to the proposed agricultural zoning amendment.

The Farm Bureau News maintains that only by such zoning can farms be protected against unfair tax loads caused when a subdivider slaps GI homes in the middle of a farm economy. Supervisor Stanley, from Southern Alameda County, is backing the farmers' plea.

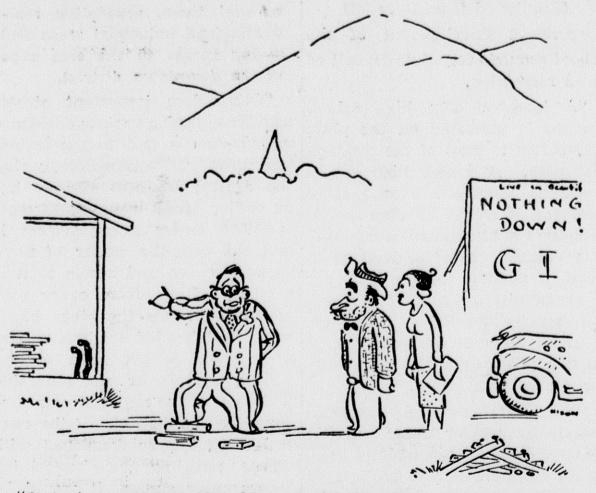

This newspaper is inclined to agree. Though Southern Alameda County in spots is changing from a rural, or small-town economy, it will be years before the change is complete. Meantime, unfair hardship will be visited upon agriculturalists unless regulation is provided. Subdividers whose first consideration is cheap land will seize a piece here, another piece there. Then schools will have to be built, sewers installed, and the ranches will be blanketed into paying for the cost.

The effect would be to tax the farmer out of business, to force him to sell the land from which he derives his living. Nor would a high price for the property compensate him, since federal capital-gain taxes take a huge bite out of the price.

The farmers believe protective zoning would prevent this. Then, if they want to keep their property, it would be up to them to band together and form such a zone, within which subdivision would be prohibited until all the included farmers decide to sell.

The plan provides democratic safeguards. The present situation is fraught with danger. Therefore this newspaper hopes the farmers, though they may be few in number, will make their voices felt when the Supervisors consider agricultural zoning March 26.

HAUL AWAY JOE

Senator McCarthy is at it again, conducting his private inquisition of the State Department. Since the Republican victory, ham-handed Joe feels he has a public mandate to shred careers and reputations, and that he is answerable to no one.

In its wish to clean up State, the Administration seems inclined to let Joe have a long leash. But his nightmare "investigations" now are doing democracy great harm, making our overseas allies think we have gone irresponsible. President Eisenhower ought to jerk the rug from under the jerk from Wisconsin, before Joe starts a reaction against genuine anti-Communist work.

GLENMOOR FIGHTS FLATTOP TRACT

A protest against "substandard" homes proposed by one subdivider near Centerville was registered Monday by another builder.

James R. Meyer of Glenmoor Homes asked the Centerville Chamber of Commerce to oppose a 20-acre tract projected next to Glenmoor by the Alameda Homes Corporation.

Meyer, whose houses are in the $15,000-to-$20,000 bracket, complained that Alameda Homes is planning "substandard 7500-square-foot flattops with slab floors, and we don't like it next to us."

The speaker said six houses are slated for one acre, where he locates less than four. Meyer suggested the Alameda Homes tract "is not in line with proposed zon-..ing" because of the small lot.. size.

Chamber President Romeo Brunelli passed the protest to his planning committee for a recommendation.

Louis Cardoza, a member of the committee, who introduced Meyer's protest, asserted:

"This doesn't need very much study. It's going in right next to a better-class subdivision, and it's undesirable." But Brunelli persisted.

Meyer said he believes his protest will block the new tract when it comes before the County Planning Commission for approval. However, he said he wanted additional support from the business-men's group.

Four New Rotarians

Four new Rotarians were inducted into membership in the Niles service club last week by President C. K. Dennis and Past President Will Lamoreux.

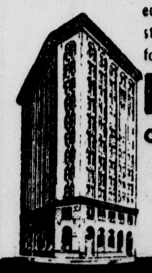

The new members are Paul Shipman, Masonic Home; Rev. Cecil Rhoades, pastor of Irvington Community Presbyterian Church; and Ray Moran and Gilbert Miller of Westvaco Chemical Corp.

READERS WRITE US

Editor:

Late returns are still pouring in from the 1952 Christmas Seal Sale but it now appears that this Seal Sale will have been the most successful ever conducted in Alameda County. Will you please accept the sincere gratitude of the Alameda County Tuberculosis and Health Association, its Board of Directors and all its members for the support your newspaper and its staff gave to this campaign. Your generous coverage permits our Association to move into a new year with the firm conviction that the months ahead will bring progress towards a goal—the defeat of tuberculosis, still the No. 1 killer among infectious diseases.

For our own information we have kept a scrap book of clippings on the newspaper coverage of our campaign. The Board of Directors and the staff have been overwhelmed by the magnificant support which the press has given the campaign in this county. Prominent among those clippings which we have are those which appeared in the Township Register. Again may I say how very grateful we are to you for your interest and cooperation.

Very truly yours,
JAMES A. CHAPIN
Christmas Seal Sale Chairman.

Editor:

Thank you for your cooperation during our recent Mothers' March on Polio.

We feel that the success of the drive in your area was in a large measure due to the excellent coverage given to us by your paper.

On an endeavor of this kind it is most heartening to have such fine support from the press.

MRS. G. L. DRENNON
Chairman for Mothers' March,
Alameda County.

Editor:

The March of Dimes Committee of the Centerville Elementary School, Edwin Amaral, Pat Owen, Loretta Valles, Dolores Hay, Barbara Jean Santos, Mike Caucedo, and Richard Abbott, wish to thank the students, the teachers, their parents, the merchants who displayed March of Dimes containers in their stores and offices, and all those who contributed to make the annual campaign a success.

Frank Mellow of Centerville was promoted to master tech sergeant in the Marines. Tech Sergeant Leland Steinmetz of Irvington was discharged. Sgt. Jack MacGregor, former principal of the Newark School, was sent to officer-candidate school.

E. E. Dias, new president of the Niles Chamber of Commerce, asked to have an acacia tree on First Street cut down as a nuisance.

The Township's fourth plane-spotter post opened in Warm Springs.

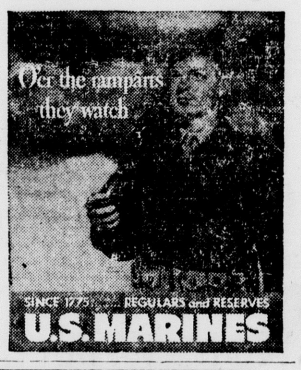

Lester Duffy was seriously hurt in a fall from a crane at the Pacific States Steel Mill.

Drunk Driver Jailed

Ray G. Navarette of Irvington was given 90 days in jail last week when he appeared before Judge E. A. Quaresma here to plead guilty to drunken driving charges.

Ervin A. Solley, 43, of Irvington, was fined $150 on a similar count.

Navarette was arrested in Newark March 6, and proved to have no operator's license. He said it had been suspended two months ago when he was convicted of drunk driving in San Jose.
